"Take away women," asks a writer, "and what would follow?" That's easy
The men.

There is no man that cannot assist the growth and development of his town. However small his influence it has its effect.

The man who talks little but does much toward showing visitors and advantages possessed by his town and section is the man who really counts in the obtaining of enterprises and making cities out of villages.

Liberality never killed a town. Every public enterprise ought to receive encouragement. When you give a dollar towards improving the town you do not throw away your money, but simply make a good investment.

Two brothers were in a partnership in the coal business. One of them got converted in a revival meeting and he then urged his brother to get religion too. The brother replied, "Why John, if I get converted who'd weigh the coal?"

Brother, if you can't get into the harness and help pull the vehicle of progress, or won't get into the cart and drive, for the love of country, don't get down on the back end and hang your feet out and track the mud with your heels and make the drag that much heavier for the few of your true friends who are going to pull their load and yours too, in spite of all your frantic antics.

There are fathers who grandly struggle against the tides of fate, and never bep the secret of their despair, whose young dreams have all faded, but who patiently bear their allotted burden with what tries to be resignation. There are noble women whose domestic afflictions would crush them if they were not heroines, who silently suffer and make the most of their disappointed years. They sing in the minor key, but still they sing, and so the world thinks them happy when they are only brave.

One of the worst foes of human life is monotony. The whole human being, body and soul, rebels against it. After long residence in one place the blood begins to run sluggishly; the appetite falters, the mind becomes dull and the feelings stupefied. Mind and body get and react upon one another. Every physician recognizes the value of a change, not only the change of air and diet, but change of surroundings as a medicine for the sick. Change of scene stimulates the mind and heart to activity and these reacting on the body arouse it to greater vitality and effort, until the whole system is renovated.

A postage stamp is a small thing; it costs only two cents, a sum so very small that it appears hardly worthy of consideration, and yet Uncle Sam does quite a business in them, as the following will show:

Postage stamps to the number of 12,775,000,000 were sold last year, the receipts amounting to $226,400,000.
More than $5,000,000 money orders, aggregating $687,715,344, were issued and paid during the past year at a loss of less than $2,000 through errors.

In fact the aggregate amount from the sale of stamps is quite a respectable sum.

There are a heap of men who think they are big enough to run this state.
They are sweating blood in an effort to make other folks believe that same thing. Most of these big men are "big" in the same way that a certain Ohio of ficer seeker was "big." He had helped elect McKinley and had gone down to Washington to pick out a job for himself. And down there they had him sized with moderate accuracy. He was very modest. He said that he knew his inability to speak German would prevent his being appointed minister to Berlin. Therefore he would have to content himself with being minister to London. The officials looked at him with astonishment. Then they said:
"Don't you know that we have got to have a big man for that place?" With equal astonishment he came back with the exclamation: "Gracious goodness! If I land this place, I'll be a big man, won't I?" A majority of the big men in public office today are only "big" in the same way.

"In a minute," is an expression frequently heard. A minute seems a very small and unimportant fraction of time, and because of that blue most people waste a good many in the course of a day. Yet think what can be done in the short space of a minute. Take travelling as an example. In a minute the average pedestrian walks sixteen feet, a trotting horse and an ocean "greyhound" cover half a mile and an express train clips off a mile. That is pretty fast travelling, but nothing to what this old world is doing. In one minute it whirls us around on the outside of the earth by its diurnal revolution, some fifteen miles, and it speeds us on in the same space of time 1,000 miles on its grand tour around the sun.
But even that is slow work compared with what a ray of light does, for in one minute it flashes through a space of 11,000,000 miles. A minute is a good deal after all.

THE PREACHER'S LAST APPEAL

Brothers and sisters, I have come to bid you good bye. I don't think God loves this church because none of you ever did; I don't think you love one another because I never marry any of you; I don't think you love me because you have not paid my salary.
Your donations have been musty fruit and wormy apples and decayed cash bags, and by their fruits ye shall know them. I go to a better place. I have been called to be chaplain of a penitentiary, any where I go you cannot come now, but I go to prepare place for you, and may God have mercy on your souls Amen!—Exchange.
